Cam Ranh Plane Fuel Blown Up Enemy Destroys

Herald

By Iver Peterson

1.8 Million Gals.

SAIGON, May 24 (NYT) - En-emy commandos blew up more than 1.8 million gallons of air-plane fuel at the huge American supply base at Cam Ranh Bay

The U.S. command today put the fuel loss at 1.5 million gal-lons, but informed sources at Cam Ranh said that 1.6 million gallons of jet fuel and 216,000 gallons of gasoline for piston planes was destroyed.

No contact was made with the nandos, the command stated, and no U.S. losses were reported. The attack was the latest in a series of successful breaches by enemy teams of security at Amer-ican bases. It underscored the concern among U.S. commanders here that American troops are becoming lax and vulnerable to attack as the U.S. withdraws from the war.

[The U.S. command disclosed the loss of four helicopters to Communist ground fire in differ-ent regions of South Vietnam Saturday and yesterday. Three crewmen were reported killed and four wounded, the Associated Press reported.

The losses raised to 7,879 the total number of U.S. aircraft reported lost to all causes in the Indochina war since Jan. 1, 1961.] 'Someone' Not Alert

No details of the enemy's methods in attacking the fuel storage area at Cam Ranh were disclosed by the Army, but officers here agreed that, as one put it, "they obviously got past someone who should have spotted them."

Among similar attacks, the am-munition storage area at Quang Tri combat base, in South Vietnam's northermost province, has been successfully infiltrated by enemy commandos twice in the last six weeks. A limited amount of ammunition was blown up in each case.

The most costly attack this year occurred in late March at Firebase Mary Anne, where 44 American soldiers were killed and 76 wounded in an assault by commandos who broke through the camp's defenses with explosive charges.

Some field officers have linked the rise in drug use among U.S. soldiers and a declining level of carefulness in the field to the fact that there is far less continuous lighting going on in Vietnam than before. The decrease in the daily comed has tended to make some troops on garrison duty less attentive to the possibility of attacks by stealth.

Heath Sees Way Open in Europe To Era of Unity

By Anthony Lewis

LONDON, May 24 (NYT) .- Prime Minister Edward Heath told the House of Commons today that the way is now open for a new era of unity, peace and prosperity in Western Europe.

Reporting on his talks with President Georges Pampidou last week, he said that the French leader "wants to see Britain in the European Economic Community." He said that his own vision of Europe and Mr. Pompidou's were "very close."

"I am confident," Mr. Heath told a crowded but quiet cham-ber," that the divisions and suspicions which have so hampered relations between Britain and France in recent years have now been removed ...

Profound Significance "I believe that this opens the prospect of a degree of unity, and thus of peace and prosperity, in Western Europe, which our continent has never seen before and which could be of profound significance for Britain, for Europe and for the whole world." Mr. Heath was trying to raise the tone of British political debate over entering the com-munity above the petty, partisan level it has had. Most observers thought that he had a considerable success this afternoon. There was little of the barracking that went on when the chief British negotiator. Geoffrey Rippon, reported to the House just a week ago. After the dramatic success of the Paris summit, the mood was one of when more

By Pompidou Stresses Optimis III On Brussels Visit

BRUSSELS, May 24 (Reuters), France is ready to welcome Britain into a truly "European Europe," French President Geor-ges Pompidou said here tonight. Speaking at a dinner given by King Baudouin on the first day of a three-day state visit here. Mr. Pompidou also declared that his talks last week with British Prime Minister Edward Heath had strengthened his optimism about the outcome of negotiations for British entry into the Common Market.

Mr. Pompidou, paying the first official visit to Belgium by is French president since 1929, said of the 11-month-old negotiations: "France's point of view in this matter is easy to sum up: She is ready to welcome her British neighbors and friends particularly into a really communitarian economic community and into a

WASHINGTON, May 24 (WP). -Senior American officials see signs that the Soviet Union will soon move to break the East-West deadlock in the Berlin talks, completing a trilogy of major Krem-lin foreign policy moves apparent-ly decided at the recent Communist party congress.

This was far abort of a hearty East German cheer for the Kremlin's intentions as explained to Mr. Honecker.

Second, the communiqué said that "the participants in the meeting expressed their views on the course of the four-party negotiations on West Berlin, They are unanimous that an understanding on this question would meet the interests of all parties to the negotiations and would remove the grounds for disputes and conflicts in this region." This language is read in Washington as meaning that the views of the Russians and East Germans clearly diverged over how to proceed in the Berlin talks even though both agreed that a (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Brussels Visit By Pompidou

and intellectual expacities."

Mr. Pompidou, making his first public statements since the summit talks, said earlier today that the EEC should enable Western Europe to gain a first-rank political and civilizing influence on the world.

Brussels, he said in a speech at the capital's ornate 15th-century city hall, has become the symbol of Europe for 200 million people—the present population of the Common Market's six member atetes.

Although observers here are particularly interested in the French president's statements on Europe in the light of the Anglo-French summit, the chief purpose of his visit is to strengthen French-Belgian links. It is his first state visit to a Common Market country since he came to office in 1969. He will, however, receive represe tives of the EEC and NATO-the two leading international bodies based here-during his stay.

Language Theme In his speech tonight, Mr. Pompidou returned to a theme he has strongly underlined in recent statements—the importance of French as a language in Europe. He described French as a privileged means of communication and expression between men, and praised the work of Frenchspeaking Belgian writers as contributing to "an irreplaceable support of generous and open humanism.

However, Mr. Pompidou did not go so far as to insist, as he has done in recent interviews, on the need to keep French as the main working language of the Common Market. Such a statement, on Belgian soil, would probably have been taken amiss by Belgium's Flemish speaking population.

The president, in fact, went on to pay tribute to the "Flemish creative gentus" as enriching French culture in Belgium. In his speech, King Baudouin.

VIENNA, May 24 (UPI).—The strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) will recess this week and resume in early July with a man-date to work swiftly toward agreement, officials said today. A U.S. delegation spokesman said the Vienna round of SALT the fourth so far will hold a final formal meeting Friday. It will be the first full session since a Soviet-American compromise last Thursday broke the SALT stalemate and laid the political groundwork for agreement.

The compromise said the two superpowers "agreed to concentrate this year on working out an agreement for the limitation the deployment of anti-ballistic missile systems (ABM)" and "will agree on certain mea-sures with respect to the limitation on sugmenting strategic weapons."

President Nixon said later he hopes for an agreement this year. This would imply an agreement worked out at Helsinki, since the Reisinki round is expected to be the last of the year.

But Mr. Heath would promise nothing today. He said that he would discuss the timetable with the opposition leaders in the usual way. But he clearly wants to keep the possibility of a quick vote open if that looks like the best strategy.

"I am not prepared to give any undertaking," he said. Similarly, the prime minister dismissed suggestions that the issue should be put to a popular referendum because public opinion polls still show most people opposed to Britain joining. In the latest, last week, the margin was 59 to 23 percent.

"It is Parliament's responsibility to decide this issue," Mr. Heath said.

The most significant aspect of a prepared statement read by Mr. Heath before he answered questions was its strongly nationalist tone, its opposition to supranational control of the EEC by civil servants in its commission.

Reassurance For Some His idea of Europe seemed close to Gen, Charles de Gaulle's-a Europe (17 Patries, of still separate countries, Mr. Heath's words were designed to reassure those Britons who worry about the loss of sovereignty in the community.

First, he said, the "important ecisions" in the community should be made not by the commission but by the Council of Ministers. They are politicians, responsible to elected parliaments, he emphasized.

Second, he said, he and President Pompidou had agreed that the ministers should act only by "unanimous agreement," when tal national interests" were at ake. That was a straight ::doption of Gen, de Gaulle's view, which almost broke up the community when he insisted on it.

These understandings, he said, the history of the community "It is our wish that France's -- provides clear evidence, that turn as president of the ESC joining the community does not entail a loss of national identity or an erosion of essential national sovereignty."

The statement makes it very clear why Mr. Heath and Mr. Pompidou found themselves in agreement on their view of Europe. The statement will delight the French government but be less pleasing to some of the deep believers in European unification.

Monetary Position

On the other hand, Mr. Heath endorsed the somewhat anomalous French desire for rapid movement by the EEC toward eco-nomic and monetary unification. He said that only such unity could give Europe the indepen-dence needed to deal effectively with the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan. Asked by a leading Labor opponent of entry, Peter Shore, whether he had accepted Mr. Pompidou's ideas on a "European Europe," the prime minister said that they were not just France's ideas. He had had them himself for years.

The effort to unify Western Surope was not like creating the United States from "newly settled territories," he said. It was mak-ing "a community from six ancient European states," which required more gradual steps.
He replied rather tartly to suggestion by Mr. Shore that nothing had really changed after the years of Britain's exclusion that it had now given way to The fact is that the president of France wants to see Britain in the community," Mr. Heath said. "That is a fundamental change, surely, over the last 15

28 Anti-War Officers in U.S. Told They Can Quit Service

(AF).-Twenty-eight Army officers who signed a newspaper ad demanding withdrawal of all American soldiers from Vietnam by the end of 1971 have been told by their superiors they can resign from the service if they don't like the war, a base spokesman said yesterday. The officers, including three doctors who are majors, and a dentist, were interviewed by their unit commanders last week after a quarter-page ad appeared in the Fayetteville Observer May 15. The Army officers and a captain at adjacent Pope Air Force Base signed the statement over the imprint of a group called the Concerned Officer Movement.

None are career officers. A spokesman for the informa-tion office at Ft. Bragg, Maj. Jimmie Wilson, said that Lt. Gen. John Hay, commander of Ft. Bragg, was responsible for the officers being interviewed. Maj. Wilson said that the interviewers told the men that if they really feel as strongly about the war as the advertisement indicated they could always resign. But Maj. Wilson said there has been no movement to get res-kind against the officers.

[Lt. Col. Ross Johnson, Ft. Bragg public information of-ficer, said the suggestion the officers could resign was made to them after it was determined that they felt strongly about their views, the Los Angeles Times reported.

[Although the men were within their legal rights in signing the ad, Col. Johnson said, morally their position is incompatible with the oath each has taken as an officer. He was referring, he said, to that part of the oath in which each officer agrees to obey the orders of the commander in chief.

["These were not offers to accept resignations," Col. Johnson said. "We have no authority to make such offers." He also said he did not know whether any resignations which might result from the action would be sceepted by the Department of the Army in Washington. Since the advent of the cold war, the Berlin problem has been the major source of East-West tension in Europe. A new agreement would have a major effect on the whole panoply of East-West issues

E. Germans Negative

The East Germans have taken a basically negative attitude to-ward the Big Four talks and toward the related Ostpolitik, or Eastern policy, of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, Mr. Brandt negotiated treaties with both the Soviet Union and Poland, but he has made their ratification conditional on a Berlin settlement.

The Bast German-Soviet com-munique stated that agreement on the two treaties "signifies a major step toward improving the atmosphere and that the two nations "believe that ratification of these treaties will favorably influence relations between Firm.

By McCa influence relations between European states."

The communique also termed "highly relevant" to "the importance of the GDR's equal participation in solving the basic problems of European peace" the establishment of normal relations in accordance with the rules of international law between the GDR" and those with which it: has no relations, meaning especially West Germany.

It is over this issue of East German sovereignly that the four-power talks hinge.

Mr. Brandt insists that the two Germanys constitute "two states in one nation." But Mr. Honecker follows the policy of his predecessor, Walter Ulbricht, in con-tending that East Germany must be granted full sovereignty. This . would mean total control over the Western access routes to West Berlin, whereas the three Western powers insist that access is basically a matter for the Big Four. West Berlin's political ties to West Germany also are at issue.

Umbrella Accord The most hopeful Washington reading of the Honecker-Breshnev meeting is that the Russians will recognize four-power responsibility, as the West insists, thus diluting East German arguments. If so, this would permit a fourpower umbrells agreement, which the West wants, under which the two German states would work ont practical details on access.

Berlin solution. Snokesman Conrad Ahlers said that Bonn leans to the view that such talks "could not be independent of the negotiations over Berlin." But American officials say flatly that it is impossible to tile Berlin to what the West calls "mntual balanced force reduc-tions" in Europe because NATO, in proposing such talks in 1968 and repeating the offer since, has never made such a link.

State Department spokesman Charles Bray said today that such a tie had not been either an American or allied requirement since the 1968 NATO offer at Reykjavik. However, if the American optimists are correct about their reading of the Honecker visit to the Kremlin, the Berlin issue could be resolved before there are INCETON, N.J., May 24_ Educational Television, said that the Nixon administration is telling the public all it should know about the Vietnam war. Chief complaints are that the public is not getting straight answers regarding casualty rates (both ours and the enemy's), and U.S. troop withdrawal figures.

The Nixon credibility gap on Vietnam is virtually tha same as that which confronted the Johnson administration at a compar-able point in time during President Johnson's first full term in office. A total of 65 percent said that the Johnson administration was not telling the public all that it should know about the Vietnam war, compared to 67 percent who hold this opinion about the Nixon administration today.

Of political significance is the fact that the Vietnam war and a wide credibility gap proved to be factors in President Johnson's decision, in the spring of 1968, decision, in the spring of 1968, to renounce a second term.

President Nixon's current popularity rating, a year and a half before the 1972 presidential election, stands at 50 percent approval. At a comparable point before the 1968 presidential election, President Johnson's rating was 46 percent.

The widespread misgivings about the policies and statements of the Nixon administration regarding the Victnam war undergarding the Vietnam war underlie attitudes about the timetable for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam. What Americans want in the way of troop withdrawal con-trasts sharply with their expectations. Large majorities have been found to favor the with-drawal of troops immediately or by the end of this year. However, only 9 percent in the current survey expect that all troops will actually be out by this time. Tha results reported today are based on a survey of 1,599 citizens, 18 years of age and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 localities across the nation during the period April 23-26. Following are the questions and the national findings:

(WP).-Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark told a federal judge here today that false reports of FBI agents on their electronic surveillance activities caused the Justice Department embarrassment" many times . while he was attorney general "Often we would go into court and say there had been no electronic surveillance, and then we would find we had been wrong," said Mr. Clark in asking for exposure of electronic surveillance by the government in the case of the eight persons indicted in the conspiracy to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger. Attorney General John Mitchell, in an affidavit filed here.

bas admitted the conversations of Sister Elizabeth McAlister, one of the defendants, were "probably" monitored by the government. That phone tap was the result of a national security authorization signed by President Nixon at the request of FBI Director Edgar Hoover. Daniel McAuliffe, a 26-year-old prosecuting attorney, said a voice believed to be that of Sister Elizabeth was heard on a phone that belonged to someone else. The government has not revealed whose phone was being tapped in this instance and maintains that Sister Flizabeth was not the subject of the tap. The Nixon administration'e wiretap policy has come under heavy fire recently, with four district judges ruling that there is no national security exception to the Constitution's demand that wiretaps be authorized by court Mr. Clark's criticism of the policy came in his first appearance in court here since he becama a defense attorney for the eight defendants. In addition to conspiracy to kidnap, they are charged with conspiring to blow up heating tunnels under federal buildings in Washington and with numerous raids on Selective Service offices. Earlier today, William S. Lynch, the chief prosecuting attorney in this case, who was appointed by Mr. Clark as deputy chief of the organized crime section of the Justice Department in 1966, said he thought the defendants were worse than those who participate in organized crime. These people decide for them-

8 'Fiscalizers' Named To Manage Operations

U.S.-Owned

By Juan de Onis RANCAGUA, Chile, May 24 (NYT).—The Chilean government has seized operational and financial control of El Teniente Mining Co., one of the three big copper enterprises in which U.S. companies have interests here.

Robert Haldeman, executive vice-president of El Teniente, formerly a fully owned affiliate of the Kennecott Copper Co., said that the government action impaired the management contract that Kennecott retained when it sold 51 percent of the mine to the Chilean State Copper Corp. in 1967. However, after a meeting with the company's production and financial managers at the mine site near here, Mr. Haldeman said that he had instructed that they cooperate with the eight "fis-calizers" that the Chilean goveroment has appointed to control all aspects of the company'a "Although we can't be held mining companies, along with the Andina mine of the Cerro Corp. and the Mining Complex of the Anaconda Co. in northern Chile, that are to be nationalized under constitutional reform that President Salvador Allende Gossens has sent to Congress.

Congress passed a final draft the constitutional reform eight days ago and it will go into effect in less than two

The mistrial, declared by Superior Court Judge Harold Mulvey, means that Seale and Mrs. Huggins must stand trial again on the same charges stemming from the torture killing of Alex Rackley, an alleged police informer. that there were no Norwegian or NATO submarines in the area. but it took three hours for search atreraft to reach the isolated Norwegian Navy frigates raced south from Bergen to cover the fjord entrance. A second spotting, of the sub was reported by Norwegans living on the phores of the fjord, but by the time the search was mounted the submarine had vanished.

There is no doubt in the minds. of Norwegian defense officials as well as military staff officers that it was a Soviet submarine. If it were a nuclear-powered attack sub, it would have had no trouhie getting away to the open sea with a fast run down the flord-possibly even at a depth of 2,500 feet, if necessary.

· Planking Movement

What is certain is that these bold activities of the Soviet Navy in Norwagian coastal waters are part of a vast naval flanking and that has completely altered the strategic balance the NATO forces have counted on for 20 in the Mediterranean it makes headlines if the Soviet fleet goes up or down from 40 to 60 vessels," says a senior military staff officer. "Up here in the north we've got over 1,600—yes, 1,600 Warsaw Pact naval units operating out of Murmansk and in the Baltic. Why, Murmansk alone is now the biggest naval base in the world, with 160 Russian submarines stationed there and on the move constantly into the North Atlantic and along the Norwegian coast." This tremendous upsurge of Soviet payal power is now producing some serious argument and questioning among senior NATO commanders and staff officers as to the correct deployment to meet the altered strategic threat. In particular there is a growing argument that the U.S. Navy is far too "Mediterranean conscious" and should have its carrier task forces in the open waters of the Atlantic instead of in the vulnerable confines of the Mediterranean. Could NATO forces break through this naval ring in mid-Atlantic and come to Norway's support in a war situation? Does this Soviet naval encirclement invalidate the credibility of Norwegian defenses? These are some of the deeply worrying questions being studied and disussed at Norwegian and NATO beadquarters in the north.

Clear Intentions

Nor are the Russians masking their intentions, as the following quote from a speech earlier this year by Marshal Sacharov, Sevict Deputy Defense Minister, makes

"The Russian effort to create a high-seas fleet answers the needs of nuclear missile warfare. The main operations in a future war et sea will most probably not take place in areas close to the coast, but on the high seas et great distances from the bases. The new Soviet fleet must therefore he able to defeat the main enemy force there. The correctness of this concept was proved by the naval exercise conducted by the Soviet fleet in the At-lantic Ocean in 1970.

This was the largest and most distant Russian naval exercise ever held, involving task forces from Murmansk, the Baltio and

BBC Bans Songs About Drug Use;

First to Go Is a Leadbelly Ditty

LONDON, May 24 (AP).—The British Broadcasting Corp. today banned songs about drugs and drug-taking—even songs that refer to the subject by innucado.

Pirst to come under the ban was a record made by one of Britain's top pop groups, the Mungo Jerry. One of the feur tracks on "Lady Rose," their new 17-minute maxi-single, is "Have a Whiff on Me."

This refers to "Morphine Annie and Cocaine Sue," and has lines such as "Who wants triends when you can have snow?" Snow is slang for cocaine.

It was written and originally recorded in the United States.

Mending Fences on the Nile

The journey of Nikolai Podgorny to Cairo combines the eclat of a state visit with the businesslike atmosphere of a major diplomatic, economic and military mission. The titular head of the U.S.S.R. is ostensibly meeting with President Sadat for "cordial and informal talks," but his train of experts suggests that there will be searching discussions on a number of levels, and in a number of areas, between the two allies.

In both its ceremonial and practical aspects, the trip is an illustration of Soviet flexibility in foreign affairs, something that is quite post-Stalinist. There was a time when Moscow would never have countenanced the official Egyptian attitude, so vividly expressed in Mr. Sadat's coup, that the assistance of the Soviet Union is warmly welcomed and gratefully received, but that local Communists are an intolerable nuieance. The Kremlin adapted to that ambivalence in Nasser's day however, and eeems prepared to do so again.

The Podgorny visit could be described in a homely metaphor as "fence-mending," but it is probably also exploratory—an effort to find out just what fences need mending and how wide the gaps may be. For there are ambiguities in the present stand of the Egyptian government, both in respect to internal and external matters, that must be of concern to the Russians.

An alliance between a great power and a smaller state, as the United States has frequently had reason to know, is seldom it will be very welcome.

an easy relationship. Each tends to expect too much of the other. While aid withoot strings is a frequently expressed ideal, it is seldom really put into practice, if the aid, and the reasons for the aid, are of any importance. Symblosis in nature takes centuries of evolution to reach mutual perfection; as between governments events and moods change circumstances too rapidly for such perfect development. The mere suggestion of host and parasite has to be avoided, no matter how accurate the words may be. In fact, however, there does not seem to be any significant reason known to the public why Mr. Podgorny and his suite should not be able to mend Russian fences on the Nile. The Soviet interest in a stable, friendly Egypt apparently has not been imperiled by political storms in Cairo, and the policy of Mr. Sadat toward the world at large is still apparently what it was before his own assertion of power and the visit of Secretary of State Rogers to the Middle East. There may be refinements of relationships that the Soviets must achieve, questions of emphasis about current negotiations that may be in question. Perhaps the Kremlin is a bit unhappy about the flurry of positive diplomatic activity that has been emanating from Washington lately-over China, the Middle East and nuclear controls—as well as the new friendliness between Paris and London. Perhaps it would like to inject a little drama of its own. If this should take the same happy form as the Western brand,

The Canadian-Soviet Pact

The signing of an agreement for regular high-level consultations between Canada and the Soviet Union on the second day of Prime Minister Trudeau's visit to Moscow may have come as a surprise but it is not a cause for alarm. However the Kremlin may view it, Mr. Trudeau clearly sees the agreement as a logical extension of Canada's effort to diversify and expand its foreign contacts, in part as a counterweight to what he calls "the overpowering presence of the United States."

It is of a piece with Canada's establishment of diplomatic relations with the People's Repoblic of Chine and its effort to forge closer ties with Latin America while, for the present, remaining outside the Organization of American States.

In all probability, anyone becoming Canada's prime minister in 1968 would have taken a more openly independent stance toward the United States than Lester Pearson had done. It was a time of great Canadian disillusionment over the American adventure in Vietnam, mounting doubts about this country's capacity for coping with its racial problem, and growing Canadian fears about American domination and loss of national identity.

Mr. Trudeau has assumed that stance openly, without indulging in cheap anti-Americanism or Canadian chauvinism. Thus, Canada's foreign-policy white paper last year emphasized the pursuit of national aims, including protection of Canadian independence and identity, while also saying Canada would continue to treat the United States as its "closest friend and ally."

In his Moscow news conference, Mr. Trudeau again noted that friendship and Canade's alliances with the United States in NATO and the North American Air Defense Command. The pact with the Soviet Union states specifically that it in no way affects either government's agreements with other countries.

Canada and the Soviet Union share a common interest in developing the Arctic .. regions with minimum damage to the environment. And who can say that this added communications channel may not prove valuable at times in the context of overall East-West relations, despite Canada's dis claimer of an intermediary role?

If the agreement makes the United States less inclined to take Canada for granted and more sensitive to Canadian concerns for protecting the Arctic and avoiding American domination, it will be all to the good.

International Opinion

Sadat's Position

Anwar Sadat is the best president Egypt has, but he shouldn't spoil his position. His fireside chat about the conspiracy against him showed how close a call it was. Since he became president he has been more active then his predecessor in trying to do something about Egypt's domestic needs; this policy goes hand-in-hand with his more. positive attempte to make peace with Israel. These are the lines on which he ought to continue. More than any of his rivals, Anwar Sadat looks capable of tackling the ambiguities he inherited from Nasser-ambiguities which might have blown up even if he had lived longer. But unfortunately, the extent of the purge, and the reports of arrests, inquiries, trials, detentions, shouting mobs in the streets, and Sadat's picture everywhere-all these have a worn look about them. The sideshows ought now to be set aside and full attention paid to political and economic improvement at home. The question of peace with Israel will have to be taken up again.

-From The Guardian (London).

It should be possible for President Sadat to carry out a program of internal reform which will help to keep up his present popularity. But what about the war? If by the end of the year, say, there has been no change-if the Israelis still sit where they are and not an inch of the lost Arab land President Sadat bas vowed to recover has been won back-what then? He depends for his political life on the army, not on the Cairo crowds, and though the Egyptian Army may not now be particularly bellicose it is perfectly capable of becoming bored and frustrated.

Obviously some development will be looked for, and obviously the Americans will be expected to encourage the Israelis to move. The Israelis would be wrong to take the changes in Egypt as a good reason for doing nothing until the air has cleared, and as evidence of the instability of the regimes they are asked to trust.

-From The Times (London).

Senseless Murder

It is sad and ironic that at the time when world sympathy goes out to Turkey under the shock of a new earthquake, the news tells also of the murder of the Israeli consulgeneral in Istanbul. The murder is an entirely brutal and senseless action. Perhaps there was a personal element in the crime. Israel may have been made the target because of current left-wing hostility to the state, and Mr. Elrom himself a victim because of his associations with the trial of Eichmann. This assassination will, however. encourage the feeling among Israelis that, individually as well as collectively, they can never count on international roles to give them security. And that therefore they must make their own rules and rely on their own strength. To that extent, the murder in its own way contributes to the forces working against a Middie East settlement. Perhaps that too came into the calculations of the PARIS.—It is a pity that George Bernard Shaw is not alive to observe the mixed pain and hope of Britain's romance with the European Community. He might have seen ironic parallels to the history of his own country, Ireland, in the choice between being one's self apart and being part of something larger.

Ireland seems to have been a painful subject for Shaw. He was born in Dublin, to an impoverished family in the Protestant ruling class, left at 20 to make his name in-London, and did not return to visit for 30 years. His thoughts en the country, mixing affection and irritation, appear in his 1904 play, "John Boll's Other Island."

Shaw successively dismisses the stage Irishman with his brogue, the self-pitying sentimentalist and the alienated intellectual. The play is left with two antagonistic figures: A bumptious English liberal, Tom Broadbent, who wants to give Ireland home rule and then begin economic development and a mystic, Keegan, a former Broadbeut looks over the countryside and decides to build a hotel and golf course. His development will roll over local traditions: "Look at your magnificent river there, going to waste." It will rose with motorboats.

When Keegan objects that the local people will lose their independence and their character, Broadhent dismisses him in a sentence: "The world belongs to the efficient.".

A Dire Vision

Keegan foresees only ruin and gluttony. "For four wicked centuries the world has dreamed this foolish dream of efficiency," he says, "and the end is not yet. But the end will come."

As always, one cannot be sure which side Shaw is on. His heart seems to be with Keegan, but then a year later, in "Major Barbara," he was extolling power aud efficiency. "John Bull's Other Island"— rarely performed but on now at the Mermaid Theatre, Londonseems curiously relevant today. The Irish problem is with us again, of course, But the more in-teresting fact is that Britain, the booming economic exploiter 1904, is now somewhat in the position of Shaw's Ireland, choosing between tradition and the vision of efficiency.

The European Community can easily seem as single-minded as Broadbent, devoted to biguess and development and profit. It is, after all, an Economic Community

Some British intellectuals, not put off by simple fear of foreigners, doubt the wisdom of joining the Community because they see it in those soulless terms.

Why join an enterprise that is trying to copy American values, they ask, just when those values of size and supposed efficiency are being challenged in America? Britain is much poorer than the United States, but anyone can see that her people are happier. People in developed Western countries are just beginning to see what Shaw saw through Keegan the human cost of development. In Europe today people are demonstrating to save elm trees from destruction in the name of ef-

Eight of these mordant fibes have been brought out in an album by publisher Robert Delpire, who is holding an exhibition of 24 more Savignac outbursts entitled "Defense d'Afficher." Each one is titled. As with all Sevignac works, no more text is required.

"The Big Devotion" shows a tycoon, cigar in mouth, kneeling m prayerful attitude on the roof of a skyscraper with his elbows on the roof of a still higher building. "I wasn"t referring only to America," he said.

The poster "Uncle from America" presents an Uncle Sam sitting flat on the ground. Rising from between his legs is the phallic symbol of the Empire State. Building.

"Douce France à l'Heure Electronique" depicts the nation as an elderly party wrapped in a woolly robe, seemingly coming down with a cold. He is plunked on a pour. His feet are stuffed into carpet slippers. He has a finger tentatively on a huge box of electrical surprises.

"France is trying her hand at things for which she is not terribly suited," commented Savignac.

Milk Powder

The erstwhile gentle Savignac lashes out at everything in what Gertrude Stein referred to as "the daily daily." Cows give milk powder while grazing in an industrialized landscape. A chef in a high, white toque prepares his plat du jour from ingredients pouring out of chemists' beakers, "Functional Life" provides three coffin-like boxes for man's essential positions of standing, sitting lying. The modern French family has been reduced to three wooden armchairs. Each wooden frame includes a head staring at a television set.

Female Monster

The genesis of the current exhibition, however, can be traced in the posters that represent his career. About 15 years ago, to promote the sale of tires, he portrayed a frolicsome gentleman so buoyed up with the happiness of the open road that he drove along happily on four tires and no chassis. Five years ago for aspirin, he depicted a tortured citizen with a bumper-to-bumper line of cars crawling inside his head from one side and out the a devouring female monster with powerful fender arms and big-breasted headlights. Shrunken, emasculated man sits at the wheel.

"I call this auto-satisfaction." said Savignac, "and I'm not hap-py about it."

"I think the car will be the death of the world. Not because of accidents. I can see the street as a great mass grave. People dying in their cars because they won't be able to move.

"I think the next great war will be the technocrais versus the humanists. I am really pleading for happiness." And Savignac claims he's "not a serious sociologist.

First it is an enclosure precisely too small by one for all the possible inhabitants—every time someone outside gets inside, someone inside is squeezed outside. Then it becomes a tower (of Babel?) tottering out of control as it is decorated with flags bearing initials of international meaning (LSD) or, in honor of the French. local significance (CGT, SMIG). The unidentifiable tape accompaniment shifts gradually to sounds of modern conflict, ending in a colosial explosion and darkness, the end of a silly world built and destroyed by silly people. In the program opener, "Divertissement," the movement is more clearly the message. It is not a single work, but a collection of bits from early larger dances in which the costumes make nonhuman forms animated by humans inside, forming geometric patterns constantly with each other and their own changing on their own and being changed by a constant play of

"Noumenom" and "Tensile Involvement," both excerpts from "Masks, Props and Mobiles," which goes back to 1953, pleased the audience particularly. Dollars Shift Back to U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP-DJ1.—Foreign central banks, mainly West Germany's Bundesbank, shifted about $3.4 billion to the U.S. Treasury during the first 18 days of May in exchange for special government recurities. It was learned.

To help absorb the recent massive movement of dollars into West Germany and other European countries, the Treasury increased its sales of special in-terest-bearing short-term note; and other debt issues.

Most of the securities were 90day notes, with an option for the buyers to convert them back into dollars on two days' notice.

It was previously reported that the Bundesbank had used "a large portion" of the $2.2 hillion that flowed into Germany in a two-day period early this month to buy the special notes.

The interest rate on these special issues corresponds with the rates in the Treasury's public offerings of debt is wes with similar maturities, U.S. officials

From last July 1 through May 18 this year, foreign central banks and other official agencies abroad increased their holdings of these special Treasury recurities to about $6.5 billion.

Dollar Recovers In Quiet Trading

PRANKFURT, May 24 (AP). -The dollar closed at 3.5065 deutsche marks in quiet trading today on the exchange market here as the central bank made no move to re-enter the market. The dollar had slipped to its all-time low fixing at noon of 2.4990 DM after opening at 3.5050. Declars said husiness was slow throughout the session. They said there was no indication when the central bank would intervene on the market,

The bank suspended its dea!ings in the foreign exchange market May 10 after it was forced to absorb at the floor price of 3.63 DM, billions of dollars pumped into the market by speculators betting on an upward mark revaluation.

Trezise Conference

Howaver, United Press International quoted Mr. Trezise at a news conference today as saying. "The Japanese currency was not fairly valued and the Japanese government should give serious consideration" to the matter. But UPI said Mr. Trezise said "it is basically up to the Japanese gov-ernment" to revelue the yea.

The special Treasury borrowing was the second time this year the sgency has offered to absorb Eurodollars. In early April, the Treasury borrowed $1.5 hillion in a similar move, paying at that time about 1 1/2 percent more than it would have cost in a domestic borrowing.

Exim Bank Notes Expire The Treasury's offering is intended to replace a similar amount of Export-Import Bank securities which expire next week. The maturing Exim notes, issued in March, carried a 5 1/8 percent annual rate of interest.

The substitution of the Treasmry notes for the expiring Exim issue would leave the export credit agency with $1 hillon in outstanding Eurodollar notes bearing 6 percent annual interest. These will mature in late July.

Exim officials said one reason for the substitution is that rates for three-month Eurodollar money have increased substanti-ally in recent weeks. Officials said the bank gains no advantage in borrowing in the Eurodollar market, but has done so to facilitate the Treasury's effort to repatriate dollars which might otherwise flow into overseas central banks and become of ficial claims against U.S. gold

Bank officials said they could not predict what will happen when the bank's remaining $1 hillion in notes mature.

Credit Squeeze

During the tight credit conditions in 1968 and 1969, U.S. banks borrowed large amounts of Euro-dollars, about $15 billion all together, to lend here.

But as U.S. credit conditions eased, and European conditions tightened, the banks began to repay the borrowings. The outflow has contributed to the heavy U.S. balance-of-payments deficit complicated the internal monetary mechanisms of reclpient countries, especially West money supply asked Congress yesterday to give it increased control over the credit policies of U.S. financial institutions.

Fed Asks Further Control Over Money Supply in U.S.

By James L. Rowe Jr.

The Federal Reserve Board urged legislation making all institutions handling checking accounts subject to the Fed's reserve requirements on such accounts.

The reserve requirement, one of the Fed's tools for regulating the money supply, forces a bank to set asids a certain percentage of its assets as a "reserva" against its secounts.

Currently only members of the Federal Reserve System are subject to these requirements, but while fewer than half the nation's banks helong to it they account for about 80 percent of the banking total of $483 hillion. The legislation was requested in the Fed's 1970 annual report. Increased Need

The reasons for that change in the structure of reserve requirements have become stronger with the passage of time," the report said.

Because demoud deposits held by any institution are part of the country's money supply just as ore those in member banks, applying the same demand-deposit reserve requirements to all such institutions would facilitate the effective implementation of monetary policy."

Reserve requirements may be raried within a range set by Congress. Currently, the range spreads from 12 1.3 percent for "country" hanks with assets under $5 million to 17 1.2 percent for "reserve city" banks with assets over $5 million.

Big Board Prices Drop In Sluggish Turnover

By Vartanig G. Vartan

NEW YORK, May 24 (NYT),-The New York Stock Enchange took it on the chin today, absorbing a series of sharp jabs in another "blue Monday" session.

Battered issues on the active list included some of the recent favorites—companies with new consumer-oriented products. Commercial Solvents, whose Itulian subsidiary has a new heart drug, tumbled 4 3 8 to MODERN Where in the World can you find a higher yield with less risk than in MODERN MEXICO!

"Mexico has enjoyed one of the highest rates of economic growth in the world in recent years", says an authoritative U. S. Department of Commerce Study. Why? Because here's one of the world's most stable currencies. Because qualified experts call Mexico " the standout example of responsible government and business in Latin America" Because there is a controled economic explosion going on in Mexico... in industry, public works, consumer goods, and international trade... which has created a true "investors market", with a yield which invites comparison anywhere in the world. Maybe this helps to explain why the international "smart money" men are putting their funds down Mexico way... and why maybe you should, too, for exactly the same good reasons. Here are two offerings among many... BANK TIME DEPOSIT CONTRACTS: Depending upon the length of time involved, these short-term loans to Mexico's Industrial Development Banks yield a net of 9% and up, after Mexican taxes... high enough to make them one of the world's most attractive and safe investments. Interest is payable monthly. Minimum investment: $4,000.00 U. S. dollars, or equivalent in any internationally recognized currency. BANK LIQUID BONDS: These Demand Deposits pay 8.73% net after Mexican taxes, interest payable quarterly; and your money is immediately available whenever you need it. (These Bonds are also ideal for use in compounding interest earned on Bank Time Deposit Contracts). Minimum Investment: $4,000 U.S. dollars, or equivalent in any internationally recognized currency.

The Dines Letter discusses

what GOLDS could earn if the price of GOLD is at $40... $50... $70!!

Prepare now for the coming GOLD CRISIS!!

Those who do not fully grasp the inherent leverage in golds will be fascinated by this special study taken from the prestigious Mining Journal, especially when they discover how many of these golds are aurprisingly overlooked. Por example, if the price of gold doubles, one mine on the above list will quadrapple its earnings, selling at a future price/earnings ratio of only five! And for those seeking high current income its current yield is 6.8%!

IS THE FATE OF THE DOLLAR IMPORTANT?

Foreign Cars Get 18.25 Percent of British Market

LONDON, May 24 (Reuters).—
Nearly one in every five new cars registered in Britain this quarter was foreign—s figure approaching twice that of the 1970 period, according to statistics re-leased here today.

The statistics released by the Motor Manufacturers Society showed that foreign cars cornered 1825 percent of the market, compared to last year's figure of 11.86.

Volkswagen topped the list, with Renault close behind and Fiat third.

The three-month period saw Ford of Britain drop to 7.5 per-cent of the market because of the nine-week strike earlier this year. A company spokesman said the figure was "the worst in Portfolio managers who don't produce profits on your investments should be paid what they're worth . . . NOTHING! So pay us nothing . . . unless we produce!

It may be a bit unorthodox but Personal Portfolio Management believes you shouldn't pay for what you don't get. No profits, no charge.

We have such confidence in our abilities to make money for you that we charge you nothing UNLESS we do. No entry fee. No fixed costs. No cancellation fee. No interest. Only if you make profits do we get paid. 20% of what you make: That's all.

As you can see, we have to be good to stay in business... to make back the expenses incurred in working for you, PFM services consist of managing your portfolio on a personal basis with your mereests foremost in mind. No fance get-rich-flyers. Just readily saleable, soundly researched, professionally managed stocks for profit.

We do better working with more money but you can test our profit-making talents with only $5,000. Which YOU keep. In your bank or at your broker. All we require is a trading authority on your account.

We make the investment ... CANNOT touch your money Try PPM for as long as you like . . . Quit any time you want. And pay nothing. Except 20% of the profits we make for you. If you think negotiated rates tomatically provide the best net price on a block tradethink again!

When it comes to moving blocks, Bache will negotiate along with the best of them.

But we'll do more. We'll give you an important extra opportunity to meet fiduciary responsibilities that you might. have overlooked. A chance to compare negotiated rates with the cost of a fixed-price offering.

We believe that for many stocksunder many stock and money market conditions, including today's-a non-registered secondary or exchange distribution can be best. As long as the stock is one that research has approved and can recommend.

We've proved that, within the past few days. And we'd like a chance to prove it on your next block.

We have the management know-how and experience, the massive distribution strength, the skilled floor brokers, and the positioning capital required to make this type of distribution efficient and effective. So don't let the desire for instant liquidity cause you to ignore the important values of a fixed price offering. Chances are your block wasn't assembled in a day -and chances are you might get more for it if you'll give us a day or so to move it.

What can it cost you to find out? Next time you have a block to move, call the Manager of the nearest Bache office listed below. You might like what you learn from him-and the company whose stock is involved might like the idea that the block was broken up and widely re-distributed.

Isn't that worth thinking about?

One should rarely play five of a minor when three no-trump is remotely possible, but South might judge that his hand, on the diagramed deal, represents one of the rare exceptions.

If he perseveres in diamonds over three no-trump, the standard bid would no doubt be four diamonds, reserving five diamonds as a mild slam invitation. But as four diamonds is forcing -since North has committed the side to game—some experts would regard four diamonds as the stronger bid and jump to five diamonds with the actual South

In five diamonds the declarer has interesting problems. To play low on the club lead, in the hope that West has the king, risks too much and he should play dummy's ace. Kleven tricks are now safe if the diamond queen can be collected or if the hearts are three-three. If both red suits lie well, 12 tricks can be made, but the overtrick is not a significant factor.

South should see that he may survive in certain circumstances with the hearts splitting four-two and the diamond queen not due to drop in two rounds. Suppose that East has a doubleton heart and three diamonds headed by the queen.

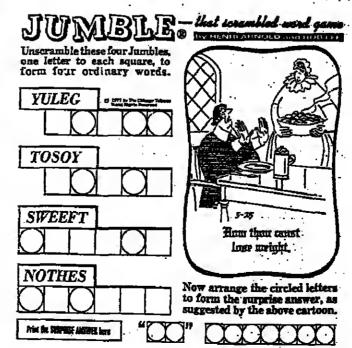

Now declarer may be able to lead a third round of hearts from dummy at the right moment, presenting . East with a choice between ruffing a loser and al-lowing South to ruff his last heart with the diamond jack. But some preparation is neces-

THE NATION KILLERS: The Soviet Deportation of Nationalitie By Robert Conquest. Macmillan. 222 pp. $6.

Reviewed by Anatole Shub

ALL Russian tragedies are indissolubly linked, and among the victims as well as the men of power there is an intricate in of personal and political connections. Nadezhda Mandel-stam's matchless memoir "Hope Against Hope" as well as Robert Conquest's definitive study "The Great Terror," illustrated how intimate these connections were at the zenith of Stalin's rule in the 1930s. Similarly today, an apparently isolated artistic scandal in Moscow is in fact closely linked to the broader Russian tragedy, and even to the more specialized theme of Conquest's current book: the wartime Soviet deportation of nationalities, in which nearly half-a-million people perished.

For example, a Soviet cellist (Rostropovich) has been prevented from performing abroad be-cause he has defended a writer under attack (Solzhenitsyn). Protesting the ban on his fellow musician, an emigre conductor (Igor Markevich) raises anew the case of a persecuted painter (Zverev) whose works he had mond, and take the ace and king helped to exhibit abroad. Exhibiof hearts. On a third heart lead, East tion of these paintings was one can ruff if he pleases, but that will be the last trick for the of the causes of the first arrest and exile of a dissident young historian (Amalrik)-whose second arrest and condemnation moved the leader of the Soviet scientific community (Academician Sakharov) to make a bold appearance in a court of appeals.

Rostropovich, Solzhenitsyn, Sakharov, Zverev, Amalrik are all part of the general intellectual ferment in Moscow. Yet, from this general dissidence agitating Russia's finer spirits to the particular crimes described by Conquest, there is barely a step. For Amalrik's wife is a Crimean Tatar: their good friend the retired Gen. Pyotr Grigorenko was arrested for protesting a secret-trial of Crimean Tatars who were demanding a return to their ancestral homeland; and the chief Tatar defendant, Roland Kadiyev. was a prominent physicist and thus associate of Academician Sakharov.

Conquest's book is an expert scholar's study, which brings fully up to date an earlier work long out of print. The story of the wartime deportations on the Volga, in the Cancasus, and in Central Asia is recounted with straightforward authority, and placed in the larger context of Kremlin oppression of all those -whether Chechens or Czechssuspected of independent aspirations. Conquest describes the history of numerous small peoples virtually unknown in the West, the vicissitudes of Leninist-Stalmist policy on nationalities, and the Khrushchevian attempts to right some of the wrongs. He analyzes the evidence available quasi-genocide, cites the relevant official and theoretical documents, and provides the latest details on the underground struggles of the displaced peoples under Brezhnev's grim rule.

Conquest points out the relevant connections not only among the victims but among those who, had they been actin many between would have been 1 crimes against humar Mikhail Suslov, the les buro ideologist these party secretary in S the northern Caucasia quest reckons, was "at least" the deports native Karachai ther as of several hundre Lithuanians later on)

BALTIMORE, May 24 (AP) .-Unbeaten Sonny Siebert's tworun homer provided the edge for his eighth victory as the Boston Red Sox nipped the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1, in the second game to earn a split in yesterday's doubleheader.

The Orioles won the opener 12-3, when Frank Robinson drove in five runs with a pair of homo runs and Jim Palmer went all the way for his seventh triumph. Siebert, who has won ten straight dating back to last September, eased out of a jam in the sixth inning after consecutive singles by Tom Shopay and Don Buford, and Mery Rettenmund's run-scoring double. But he needed ninth-inning relief from Sparky Lylc after Brooks

Robinson's one-out double. Siebert's homer in the fifth off loser Dave McNally, 6-3, was his third of the season. It came with two out after Doug Griffin had forced George Thomas, who had walked on four pitches.

In stopping the Orioks, against whom he has a 13-4 lifetime rec-ord, is like a like in the hits. Ken Tatum, Boston's top reliever, was standing in short right field during the first-game warmhim in the face, fracturing his left cheekbone.

He will be operated on in Boston lodey and is expected to be out three weeks. Tatum appeared in 16 games, posting six saves and an earned-run average of 2.33 in 19 innings.

Morning Line: Nuts and Bolts

By Bernard Kirsch MONTE CARLO, May 24 (IHT). -"Let's go spark plugs." "Two, four, six, eight, who do we appre-ciate. Lucas Girling brake lin-"Sock it to 'em nuts and Jackie Stewart went around and around Monte Carlo yesterday and the crowd, many wearing Jackle Stewart polo shirts, others carrying "Forza, Fer.

rari" signs, all cheered the hero of the day. Stewart had driven 80 times around the streets of Monte Carlo at breakneek speed and won the Monaco Grand Prix and some of the audience of 200,000 or so who tried to watch the race later spoke about how superior the Scot was to all the other grand-prix drivers. Others in the crowd later asked, "Who won today?"

An attendant in the men's room of the Hotel de Paris said, "I have never seen Monte Carlo like it's been this weekend," and several days before the race, British driver Grabam Hill said the Monaco Grand Prix is "becoming a social event." It wasn't en accusation, just a fact.

Hairpin Turn

The Monaco Grand Prix is an auto race, and one of the slowest and most difficult on the grand-prix circuit. There is a hairpin turn which needs precision driving. There is a drive at 220 kilometers an hour through a tunnel which needs a strong driver and a fast car. And there is the chicane, the most famous and dangerous part of the course. Going through the chicane means a slight wheel turn to the left going at about 80 kpb through space just big enough for one Formula One car. The minntest miscalculation means hitting a curb to the left or right.

Lorenzo Bandini of Italy wasn't perfect in 1967 and he died several days later from burns he received in the race accident. Not many people saw that accident in 1987 because there were no stands around the chicane. In 1968, stands were built, and they were the first seats bought.

The crowd saw no such cheap thrills yesterday. Graham Hill had a mishap on the second lap when a wheel of his Brabham-Ford hit a curb and went skidding across the track.

Eight-Column Ranners Later, Stewart, with only 25 laps to go and leading by more than 20 seconds, had the wheel of his Tyrrell clip the curb, but only the hubcap made contact, and not the tire. As Hill said earlier in the week, both as a knock at many newspapers and at those who don't understand auto racing, "Newspapers only give eight-column banners to grand-prix races when there is o sensational accident."

Those who failed weren't worried because they knew they had another chance. There was a "gala dinner" at the Hotel do yesterday evening and Stewart was there. By 9 p.m. several hundred persons sur-rounded the hotel, waiting for a glimpse of Stewart. Or a glimpse driver Pedro Rodriguez, son of a Mexican millionaire. Or perhaps director Roman Polanszi. Or Stirling Moss. Or the Prince. Or the Princess. But those who combined with Stewart to make his Tyrrell-Ford the fastest machino in Monte Carlo yesterday passed enonymously through tho There is no driver on the cir-mechanics yesterday because it is bard to realize that winning a race doesn't only mean going around and around and around. It means tightening a bolt or screw, or changing a bad tire in 20 seconds, or changing a brake ratio just a fraction, such as was done to Stewart's car yesterday. Everything done in the weeks of preparation was intended to make it a safe day, which it was. Today the streets of Monte Carlo were different. They were filled with make-believe grand-

USC's Deckard Heir Apparent As 'World's Fastest Human'

Deckard, the University of Southern California sprinter, looks like a whippet-or a pipe stem. His speed is obvious; he has run gain a pound." a 9.2 in the 100 (one-tenth of a second off the world record; and a 20.2 in the 220 (two-tenths off the world record, despite slowing up at the finish). In the Pacific-8 Track and Field chempionships last weekend he won both sprints, in 9.7 and 20.9, running against stiff winds in both races. But UCLA won the title with 126 points, Oregon was second at 117 and USC third with Besides nure speed. Deckard is learning about the other factors vital in track and field-such as psychological ploys. He remembers a guy named John Carlos.

"I ran against Carlos five times," says Deckard, "and every time, he requested he be put in the lane next to me. Before every race he would lean over to me and say, I'm the world's fastest human." But Deckard considers Carlos a good friend. Long before most people had even an inkling of Deckard's real potential, Carlos was predicting that he would be the Mel Patton, the Bob Hayes, the John Carlos of his day. Now, some people are calling Deckard the world's fastest human.

Most 20-year-old athletes probably would find their feet frozen to the starting blocks if they were given an accolade like that. But Deckard just smiles, an inscrut-able smile that makes the thin mustache above his lip wiggle, and says it doesn't bother him He not only thinks he would be pressure-proofed by being known as the world's fastest man, he believes the opposition would be completely psyched.

"Can you see it?" he asks. "All of these 9,3 sprinters on the track. Maybe you're only a 9.3, too, but then you're introduced as the world's fastest human and all the other guys start looking over at you and thinking, Man, I've got to get way out in front or I'm never going to beat him!' That would give an athlete a real advantage, don't you think?' Many "experts" have blushed at Deckard's success.

"When Track and Field News rated the men it thought would finish in the first eight places in the 100 at the NCAA meet this year, I wasn't even mentioned," he says. "That got me just a little upset."

Maybe it's that nearly everyone recalled Carlos, who was 6-3 1/2 and weighed 205 pounds, Deckard, charitably, is 5-11 and 143 pounds, even counting the yellow baseball cap he wears to workouts.
"I tried to gain weight at L.A.

By Dwight Chapin

City College last year, I really did," says Deckard. "I took all this protein and lifted weights and kept lifting. And I didn't Willie the Wisp was so scrawny that he almost didn't get recruited by USC. At one time a Trojan assistant coach said, "Don't call us kid, we'll call you. You leck two things we're sort of interested in—size and speed."

Deckard has not always known that he was fast. He started running races with other moppets in elementary school. "But I couldn't stay up with the fastest kids," he admits. Now he knows he's fast .

but isn't sure just how fast. He has matured greatly and is much stronger because of his weight program. But he still has a problem getting the proper start "That's the most important thing in track " he says).

Saturday at Scattle, Wayne Collett, who led the Bruins' victory by winning the 440 in 45.3 and anchoring relay triumphs at distances of 440 and a mile, had the lead in the last leg of the between a teammate and Deckard. Collett had three yards on Deckard—some claim it was as much as five-but it looked like Deckard would get it all back, But Collett had just enough at the wire and both teams finished in 39.9. "I had started to relax," said Collett, "but then I saw Willie ont of the corner of my eye and I leaned at the tape. "You know, we were all kidding this week about these stories call-ing Deckard the world's fastest human. But, you know, they just might be right." Chance at Record Deckard shows no false modesty. "I definitely think I have a chance to tie or break the world record in the 220," he said. "I still feel more comfortable at that distance than I do in the 100," "I don't intend to be running at 32 like Mel Pender," says Deckard, now a junior at USC. "I'd like to set a world record and go to the Olympics (in Munich in 1972) just one time. That's it." Deckard is married and he and his wife. Valerie, have two sons, Darren, 2, and Xavier, 10 months. Someday he'd like to teach or coach or-don't langh-play professional football. "I played football, as o 137-pounder, in high school," he says. He straightens his shoulders. which aren't that small. "I really believe I can gain some weight, up to maybe 160 pounds next year." He's already thinking about sidling up to some 260-pound defensive and and saying, "Hello, I'm the world's fastest human." C: Los Angeles Times of New York, has just written from Fort Hood, Texas, informing me that a movement has been organized on the base to get all American troops out of Texas by the first of the year. There are stlu 200,000 American GIs stationed here wrote, "and most in Texas," he Buchwald of them would go home tomorrow if they could."

The lieutenant said that American soldiers have no idea what they are doing in Texas and reto accept the Pentagon's word that they are there to protect the Alamo.

"The natives don't want us." he writes, "and our presence causes all sorts of difficulties.

"First there is the language problem. The American troops refuse to learn Texan, and the Texans refuse to speak American. This leads to serious mis-

"Secondly there is the question of size. Most American GIs is, everyone in Texas is getting are at least a head taller than Texans, and this gives the Texans R terrible inferiority complex. The American GI speaks of his Texas counterpart with contempt and derision, and the Texan thinks of the American GI as a big brute who has no feeling for ancient Texas traditions. This clash of cultures has led to fist fights and bottle throwing in bars.

"Finally there is the question of Texas women. Texas women are attracted to American GIs. not only because they consider them better looking than Texas men. but invariably they have more money and charm. Texas meo have become bitter about this

Pipe Draws Too Well

CASTELFRANCO VENETO, Italy, May 24 (AP),—Stefano Marchetti, a white-bearded man of 80, sat quietly smoking on his fann house porch yesterday when lightning hit his pipe. The pipe burned and Mr. Marchetti's beard was singed but he was unhurt.

WASHINGTON.-A U.S. Army and most Texas women who Ueutenant friend, a natire marry a GI are socially ostraciz-

> "But the real problem, as far as the American GIs are concerned, is that they don't understand what they are doing in Texas in the first place. Every president has given a different reason why U.S. soldiers should he there. Some have said that the Americans are there to protect the Texans from being overrun by the Mexicans.

Other presidents have said the troops are there to assure that Texas has honest elections, something that has been denied Texans since they joined the Union.

"Some presidents have defended sending troops to Texas on the grounds that we made a commitment to Sam Houston, and the United States would lose its credibility if it backed down at this late dete.

"President Johnson insisted we needed American troops in Texas to prevent supplies from coming up the Perdenales River. President Nixon said Saturday we had to be there to interdict tha LBJ Trail.

"But the truth of the matter rich on the American GI, and all we're doing is perpetuating a government that at the least is suspected of monkeying with the state banking laws."

My lieutenant friend concludes his letter by saying, "It is for this reason that our get our boys out of Texas now movement was formed. A recent survey indicated that while 65 percent of all Texas natives were for our being in Vietnam, only ten percent were for our being in Texas. "At the same time 83 percent of all American Gis polled said they'd rather be in Vietnam than in Texas

Our movement is dedicated to the proposition that only Texans can help Texans, and by maintaining foreign troops on Texas soil we are preventing the natives from declding their own destinies.

"If you agree with the sentiments of our movement, send a wire or letter to your senator or congressman. It's time this country admitted that Davy Crockett made a mistake."

The Kennedy Art

This painting of a Paris street scene by the late President John F. Kennedy is now on view at the Institute of Contemporary Art in Boston.

The exhibition opened Sunday night with an auction of paintings by other members of the Kennedy family. "Red Shack" by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was sold to Miami millionaire Ollie Cohen for $3,000. A pair of seacapes by Patricia Kennedy Lawford and Jean Kennedy Smith were auctioned for $900 and $1,500 respectively. Other art works by Robert Morey, who gave the late President painting lessons, brought the auction total to $45,500, which will go to the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library fund.

Two other works by President Kennedy on exhibition in Boston are a Riviera landscape and a seascape. He began painting in 1955 when he was recovering from a back operation.

Soap Operas... Still the Same Old Story

By Judith Martin

WASHINGTON (WP). - Mrs. Simpson and Dr. Aldrich Her daughter was expecting his child, and they talked about who should tell the daughter's new husband. They also talked about their sandwiches.

Dr. Bellini was in the hospital laboratory, complaining that his ex-wife, Dr. Davis, was being molested by a staff psychiatrist with whom she had to work late. Dr. Maggie Powers, wife of the hospital's chief of staff, Dr. Matt Powers, was lying in a ward upstairs with a fractured skull.

It was a typical day at the soap opera. Nothing happened. "The Doctors" went around checking their charts and discussing what had happened in previous episodes.

Soap opera, with its low-keyed, slow-paced, moralistic treatment birth, marriage and death, is popular as ever and more durable than anything else on television. CBS has made daytime its "most hicrative portion of the day" with eight soaps costing about $40,000 a week each to prowere having a snack and a chat. duce (as opposed to up to $100,000 for a single, half-hour night-time show) and loaded with advertisements for the eotire spectrum of cleansers—soap for men's shirt collars, for kitchen walls, for bables' baths, for toilet bowls, for armpits, for cowboys' dungarees. Just as the pitchmen are always screaming that the soaps are new! new! new! with their supermodern extra added ingredients. the soap operas are constantly getting new packaging to make them look up to date. Hipples, veterans dropouts and miniskirted unwed mothers dress the shows up with a contemporary look. But the stuff inside is the same—a strict, conventional morality that sometimes makes one wonder if the "moral revolution" of the '60s ever took place. More than 10 millico people watch "As the World Turns,"

which has been on the air 15 years and is described by the network as "the day-to-day story of the affections, conflicts and happenings that threaten three closely related families in an American community. The old-est television soap, "Search for Tomorrow," has been searching for over 20 years. The reason characters are always reviewing what happened before is that viewers are estimated to watch the daily programs only twice a week, and then they're not always paying close attention because they might be doing something else, too. "If you think nothing happens on this show, you ought to see 'As the World Turns,' " said Allen Potter, prodocer of "The Doctors." "As the World Turns" is numwhile "The Doctors" is fourth on her one on the Nielsen ratings, the list of 21. Last comes "Where the Heart Is," which is about a college professor's second wife who's in love with his son. It's only two years old, though, and it takes a while for the viewers to feel part of the family.

The sexual stereotypes are not always done consciously. Edwin Nicholson, producer of "The Edge of Night," denied they existed on his program, and cited a charac-ter called Cookie as being "a career girl,"

"Of course, she's currently off from work because she's mentally deranged," he added, "but when she's well, she's secretary to the chief of police." Meanwhile, it turns out, Cookle's husband is having an affair which he justifies on the grounds that Cookie

Some changes-made to preserve, rather than close, the time gap-can be seen in what Mr. Nicholson called "the unwritten code of good taste, "Once, drinking was taboo, especially among the core characters. Villains could take a drink before dinner. and now, without really slopping it up, so can goodles. But a couple of years back, after the surgeon general's report, we had the core characters stop smoking. Today, villains can drink and nickname which belies his vigor and vitality and which, for that matter, was bestowed upon him 30 years ago while he was leading men a third his age in the partisan warfare that was to estab-lish him as Yugoslavia's ultimate leader. Tito, in fact, still "displays an endurance denied to much younger men," according to David Mazzarella of the AP, and "laughs off the onslaughts of age by saying, T don't have time to grow old." In addition to re-cent tours of Zambia, the Benelux countries, France, Italy and Germany (and a scheduled trin to the U.S. this fall), The Old One has criss-crossed his own country four times, concluding the whistle-stop with a ringing 40minute gration without notes to a workers' congress in Sarajevo. Having quelled what was reported to be a burgeoning factionalism by sheer force of personality, one . admiring Titologist commented. The old magician has done it again." And so, it seems he has.

Tito's main concern at 79 is to set up machinery for collective . Dylan's songs have .c leadership when he's gone, though his life-style suggests his preocenpation is premature. Although a bit paunchy, The Old One could hoy on a hicycle int blame the pot on a continuing say: "You're having fondness for the good things of life including the Scotch whisky
